WEEK 10

NWO TOP grant awarded to Dr. Neil Olver

Dr. Neil Olver, assistant professor in the Department of Econometrics & Operations Research, has been awarded a prestigious TOP grant by the NWO. This grant will fund a PhD position.

The award has been granted for the research project entitled "Understanding dynamic aspects of traffic". Traffic is a serious societal problem, especially in large urban areas. It is also a topic of intense theoretical study. Traffic users are “strategic” in that they adapt their route choice based on delays and congestions caused partly by other road users. This project proposes to understand this strategic behaviour in a model that takes into account that traffic congestion varies over time. Many basic questions, such as computing the equilibrium behaviour of the system, remain unanswered.

Neil Olver joined VU Amsterdam in September 2013, and his research has been supported by an NWO Veni grant. He completed his PhD studies at McGill University, Canada, and was a postdoc at MIT. He is originally from South Africa.

Meindert Flikkema (M&O) among top 5 Lecturers of the Year

Meindert Flikkema, one of Vrije Universiteit Amsterdam’s top lecturers, was nominated for the Lecturer of the Year Award, presented by the Inter-city Student Consultative Platform (ISO) on March 5.

For the Lecturer of the Year Award, Students and management of educational institutions have nominated twenty lecturers, of which the jury selected five. The nominated teachers were praised for their commitment, passion and innovative teaching methods. Meindert’s fellow nominees were Aswin van Oijen (Tilburg University), Erwin Hans (University of Twente), Max Bogers (Fontys University of Applied Sciences) and Loes Damhof (Hanze University of Applied Sciences).

They all delivered a mini-lecture during the awards ceremony, and engaged in a debate with Jet Bussemaker, Minister of Education, Culture and Science. This year’s award went by Loes Damhof. She received the very first Comenius stipend, worth 50,000 euros, to be used for enhancing the winning educational initiative and/or disseminating expertise to colleagues. Meindert Flikkema has won multiple prizes for his commitment to teaching. He was the winner of last year’s Van der Duijn Schouten Teaching Award, presented at Vrije Universiteit Amsterdam to a lecturer who distinguishes him or herself in multiple facets of the field of education.
